JOB SUMMARY

This position is located within the Office of Naval Intelligence, Farragut Technical Analysis Center. The incumbent will fill an All-Source, Intelligence Specialist position within one of six departments within the command. The incumbent will apply analytic expertise, initiative, creativity, critical thinking, and strong communication and interpersonal skills on a daily basis to solve complex intelligence problems and drive intelligence collection efforts.

Specific Duties

- Serves as an entry/developmental intelligence specialist and performs basic tasks regarding the analysis, evaluation, collection, interpretation, or dissemination of information and/or products relative to assigned area(s) on political, economic, social, cultural, physical, geographic, technical or military conditions for one or more foreign countries.
- Participates with higher grade analysts in researching for specific intelligence information in preparation of routine studies or portions of complex studies for various types of customers. Selects relevant data from classified and unclassified library sources, foreign equipment, documents, photography, raw data (both digital and analog), and automated and manual data bases. Analyzes and evaluates information thus obtained on the basis of reliability and credibility of source, agreement of source with other sources, and significance of the information. Prepares portions of or complete intelligence analyses or assessments in his/her assigned area(s) of responsibility.
- Participates in the maintenance of a data base(s) for the assigned function. Evaluates relevant material as to its importance, and extracts all significant data pertaining to the assigned subject matter and geographic area. Identifies intelligence gaps, recommends specific collection requirements to fill gaps, and evaluates the intelligence collected in response to those requirements. Draws specific conclusions from his/her analyses.
- Reviews, on a preliminary basis, analysis or contributions to studies or reports prepared by other government agencies or other elements of own activity to assure conformance and consistency of own analysis to those of others.
