

On April 21, Rear Adm. Mike Studeman, Commander of the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI), hosted ONI's second "Brain Trust" Day, bringing retired senior Naval Intelligence leaders to the National Maritime Intelligence Center. We were honored to host these fourteen accomplished Naval Intelligence alumni in our new recurring event series to discuss issues across the spectrum of strategic competition challenges, maritime intelligence, and leadership. We are grateful these professionals are willing to continue to share their knowledge and extensive experiences with ONI today as we tackle our nation's maritime intelligence challenges.
