

Master Chief Petty Officer of the Navy James Honea visited the Office of Naval Intelligence today to speak with Sailors about building warfighting competency, professional and personal development, and improving the quality of life for Sailors across the U.S. Navy.

